

WR Opposes Censorship by Auditor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Monday he saw no reason why State Auditor Jimmie (Red) Jones should not sign a state warrant to have a University of Arkansas literary magazine, "Preview," printed as long as the warrant was in proper order.

Rockefeller made the comment during an hour-long news conference at which he touched on a variety of subjects.

"The next thing, he'll (Jones) stop paying postage of my mail going out of here," Rockefeller said.

Jones refused last week to sign the order. He said he felt that four poems to be printed in the magazine were obscene.

Rockefeller called his dismissal of seven members of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Mental Retardation an efficiency move and said it was done to comply with federal requirements.

The governor said the new committee will be a combination of the advisory group and the Committee on Construction of the Mental Retardation Facilities. Rockefeller has already named ten persons to serve on the 14-member committee.

Rockefeller indicated he might place some of the ousted committee members on other committees but said he could not think of a place for committee chairman Jack Sklar of Little Rock.

"I felt that we would find people that are more cooperative and less dominant," Rockefeller said after being asked to expand on his comment about Sklar. "I think he has created an atmosphere of proprietorship."

Rockefeller also said he felt a Pulaski chancery court would dismiss a suit filed by six members of the state Game and Fish Commission. The suit asks the court to issue an order to prevent Rockefeller from proceeding with his ouster hearing Dec. 5 for some members of the commission.

The governor said he would take the transcript of the hearing and make the ultimate decision on whether to take court action to oust members under Amendment 35. He said the three-member hearing panel would make no recommendations.

Rockefeller said he had not decided on his appointee to the commission to fill the unexpired term of Vern Hudspeth of Harrison who died in Texas last week. Rockefeller said he has had considerable pressure from fox hunters and coon hunters to place one of their representatives on the commission. He also said he was looking for someone from north Arkansas to fill the position.

Rockefeller said he planned to keep the special legislative session early next year as simple as possible. He said it would be broken down into measures derived from the constitutional revision, governmental efficiency and prison studies and sev-

The governor also said he was not surprised at last week's retirement announcement by Rep. E. C. (Took) Gathings. Rockefeller said Gathings was probably aware that he would have strong Republican opposition in 1968.

Some Want and Some Don't

PORTLAND (AP) — Residents near Forest Park have complained to the city council that deer keep coming down and eating their roses. "We have a dilemma," said City Commissioner Francis Ivancie. "Some people want the deer to come, so they can look out their windows at them."

Steel Truck Strike Over; Cars Rolling

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel haulers wheel their big trucks onto the highways for the first time in nine weeks today, ending one of the bloodiest strikes in recent years.

A settlement, accepted Monday by the majority of 10,000 to 20,000 haulers, leaves the steel industry with the chore of moving out an estimated half a million tons of steel piled up in warehouses, a task that could take a month.

But the powerful Teamsters Union, which represents 60 percent of the steel haulers, may feel the effects of the bitter strike for some time.

"This isn't the end, it's just the beginning," said William Kusley, of Gary, Ind., organizer of the rebellion. "We're an organization now with recognition that the Teamsters are going to have to deal with."

"We showed them that the forgotten little men in their union can get together and win their demands if the union won't fight for them."

He said 67 per cent of the strikers accepted a plan granting them $10 an hour for every hour after four hours they wait in mills to be loaded, a 5 per cent increase in shipping rates and a special committee to represent them before the Teamsters. The actual hauling fees vary.

The strike spread terror on the highways in eight states from the Midwest to New England. Tractors were shot at, stoned, beaten and firebombed.

One driver was killed by a rock tossed through his windshield; another was critically burned. More than a dozen were wounded by flying glass and bullets.

Kusley says he's not satisfied with the agreement. He said his rebel group plans to continue organizing with an eye on the 1970 contract negotiations.

That's when the national contract between the Teamsters and trucking companies expires. The steel haulers, independent owner operators, protested the contract signed last spring. They wanted a separate contract, but claimed they were stymied by their small number and lack of organization in the world's biggest union.

Kusley said other independent owner-operators in the 1.8 million member union—those who haul dry freight and produce—took notice of the strike and "saw what we could accomplish with a little organization and leadership."

Probation for $3 Pizza Theft

BALTIMORE (AP) — Criminal Judge Meyer M. Cardin put a teen-ager on probation without a verdict on a charge of robbery stoner Francis Ivancie. "Some people want the deer to come, so they can look out their windows at them."

POINT OF VIEW is important in contemplation, according to this British flower child, who apparently liked the way things looked from an upside-down position while participating in a recent love-in that included about 20,000 hippies on the grounds of the Duke and Duchess of Bedford at Woburn Abbey, England.

AFL Chief Irked by Non-Payment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — J. Bill Becker of Little Rock, president of the Arkansas State AFL-CIO, said Monday that two state officials have agreed that the University of Arkansas and the Medical Center would not entail any additional cost of they deduct union dues from the checks of employees.

Becker said that both J. V. Stewart, director of the Budget Division of the state Administration Department and State Auditor Jimmie "Red" Jones had said no additional cost would be involved. Becker produced letters from the two men.

Becker said the University of Arkansas Board of Trustees had no "moral or legal justification" for refusing to deduct the union dues.

"The plain and obvious fact is that the board has not complied with the state law because it is anti-union and will do anything to discourage employees from joining together for mutual self-help and protection in the American tradition," Becker said.

Becker also said that both the governor's office and the attorney general's office have agreed that the law requires state agencies to deduct the dues if the employees requested. University officials had said that the law allows agencies to make the deductions if they chose.

Evolution Case to High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was asked Monday to throw out an Arkansas Supreme Court ruling and to declare unconstitutional a 1928 Arkansas law that makes it illegal to teach evolution in the state schools.

The Arkansas Supreme Court upheld the Arkansas law June 5, calling it a "valid exercise of the state's power to specify the curriculum in its public schools."

The appeal was filed in behalf of Mrs. Susan Epperson, who taught biology at Central High School in Little Rock, and H. H. Blanchard of North Little Rock who has a child in college and another in high school. Mrs. Epperson is now doing research work at Columbia, Mo.

The appeal said that the freedom of speech guarantee in the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States is also a "guarantee of the freedom to learn."

Arkansas and Mississippi are the only states that still have laws prohibiting teaching of the evolution theory.

The Arkansas law makes it a crime for any teacher in any school supported by taxpayer's money to "teach the theory or doctrine that mankind descended or descended from a lower order of animals" and teachers who violate the law may be convicted, fined up to $500 and lose their jobs.

Penguins

Contrary to popular impression, penguins do not all live in regions of ice and snow. Some species inhabit the coasts of South America and Africa and some areas of Australia, New Zealand and Pacific islands, but none live north of the equator.

Major Raid Is Made on Hanoi Base

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force, Marine and Navy jets, in a coordinated raid today, bombed North Vietnam's biggest air base—the Phuc Yen airfield 18 miles northwest of Hanoi—for the first time in the war.

The Phuc Yen field, where the North Vietnamese based some squadrons of their Soviet-designed MIG fighters, had been on the Pentagon's prohibited list.

A U.S. spokesman said the American planes flew through challenging MIGs, intense anti-aircraft and missile fire to attack the installation. Pilots reported shooting down a MIG21 and probably destroying a second.

The aerial action was announced as South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed with a guerrilla force just south of Saigon and the Viet Cong shelled two government positions less than 25 miles north of the capital.

Spicer Is Elected to ASC

Farmers recently named to serve as the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Hempstead County Committee are: Luther Spicer of McCaskill was elected as a regular Committee member for a term of three years. Alternates elected were Guy Lee of Blevins and B. C. Webb of Columbus.

The 1967 election was held at a county convention Oct. 5, at the Federal Post Office Bldg. in Hope. Electors were farmers chosen as convention delegates at recent ASC community committee elections throughout the county.

Chairman R. B. Arnold points out that the ASC county and community farmer-committees are in charge of local administration of such national farm programs as the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Cropland Adjustment Program, the feed grain program, the voluntary wheat program, the upland cotton diversion program, acreage allotments and marketing quotas, the National Wool Program, commodity price-support loans, and storage facility loans.

The ASCS county office at the Federal Post Office Bldg. in Hope is headquarters for the county committee, and serves as the farmers' local contact for business connected with participation in the programs administered by the committees. These programs encourage conservation and increase farm returns by means of price supports and market supply management, as well as by payments.

Atty. Gen. Purcell Addresses Kiwanis

JOE PURCELL

Attorney General Joe Purcell spoke to the Hope Kiwanis Club today at noon at the Town and Country restaurant.

Mr. Purcell is a native of Bradley County, Arkansas, born at Warren on July 29, 1923. He served in the United States Army during World War II.

He is a 1952 graduate of the University of Arkansas School of Law, Fayetteville, and was admitted to the Bar of Arkansas in September, 1952. He has practiced law continuously in Benton, Arkansas, since that time, and been admitted to practice before all Federal Courts, including the United States Supreme Court. He is a member of the Arkansas and the American Bar Association.

Mr. Purcell served as City Attorney of Benton, Arkansas from January 1, 1955, until January 1, 1959. He served as Municipal Judge of Benton and Saline County from January 1, 1959 until he resigned the judgeship on April 26, 1966, to file as a nominee in the Democratic primaries for the office of Attorney General of the State of Arkansas. He won the Democratic nomination in the Democratic primaries of 1966 defeating the incumbent Bruce Bennett and one other opponent. He was elected to the office of Attorney General in the general election November 8, 1966, over the Republican candidate Jerry Thomason, of Arkadelphia.

Judge Purcell is married to the former Helen Hale of Prescott, Arkansas, a graduate of Texas State College for Women. They have two daughters, Lynelle and Ede.

The Judge is a member of the

First Methodist Church, Benton, and has served as chairman of the Commission on Missions, chairman and vice-chairman of the Official Board, church trustee, lay delegate to the Methodist Annual Conference, and church lay leader. He is presently serving as chairman of the Commission on Stewardship and Finance.

He is a member of the Benton Lions Club, and is a member of the Board of Directors of the Ouachita Area Girl Scout Council, and other civic and community organizations.

Hearing Set on G. & F. Commission

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Chancellor John T. Jernigan said Monday he would conduct a hearing Friday on a lawsuit filed Oct. 13 by six members of the state Game and Fish Commission.

The suit asks the court to issue an order to prevent Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller from proceeding with plans for a hearing to determine whether the members should be removed from the commission for alleged misconduct.

The hearings had been tentatively scheduled for early in December. Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart, the only member of the commission appointed by Rockefeller, is the only commission member not involved in the suit.

Terms at Hospital Explained

Hempstead County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors approved the following, effective immediately:

All hospital bills are due and payable when patient is discharged and leaves the hospital. However, it is the general custom to take for collection health benefit insurance policies, which are acceptable to the hospital, when tendered by the patient or his guarantor.

The hospital maintains a service department where all such claims are processed, and every effort is used to collect the benefits due, but the patient or his guarantor is debtor to the hospital, and not the insurance companies. The hospital will file free of charge insurance claims to the extent of the amount due the hospital, but on any other claims against insurance companies, there will be a charge of $3.00 for each additional claim. When no policy is tendered upon admission to the hospital, a cash deposit commensurate with the services to be rendered shall be required.

After insurance claims are filed, and no benefits are received from the hospital within 90 days, and no satisfactory explanation is made as to the reason for delay, the patient or his guarantor will be required to make payment to the hospital and look to his insurance company for reimbursement.

If deferred payment is necessary when a patient is discharged from the hospital, the person desiring such credit shall be required to show that he is able to meet the deferred payments when due, and if at the end of 60 days no payments have been made, 6 percent interest will be added to the account.

All bills incurred for emergency and out-patient treatment shall be on a strictly cash basis. All types of out-patients will be charged $5.00 for the Emergency Room, plus any additional services which may be rendered.

missile attack had "very serious implications for the United States."

"May we not consider," Wilson asked, "that similar naval missiles will be provided to North Vietnam for use against the ships of the United States Navy?"

An authoritative Israeli source said his government doubted Egyptian crews had time enough to be trained to fire the missiles, which locked in on the destroyer by radar. Gen. Mustapha Kamel, an Egyptian military spokesman said this was "absurd" and asked: "We have not a single foreigner in our armed forces."

CHATTER

By "BILL"

According to the Dominion Electric Corporation tomorrow's homemaker will be living in a dreamland of electrical appliances. In fact, while she does her dreaming, she'll be able to rest her head on a pillow that's warm in winter, cool in summer, and produces a gentle lull of music. She will also have access to a food mixer powered by sound waves, a coffee maker with throw away coffee cartridge, an electronic toaster that pops out toast in a second and a self-propelled steam roller front.

This all sounds pretty wonderful, but we do hope she does not push a button and find all her shopping done for her... that would take all the joy out of life.

Yes sir, the fun of shopping is going from one place to another, trying on, comparing and then finally ending up at Raley's and finding exactly what you want! This may be our own dream and a bit of wishful thinking, but it can happen to you...

We carry a line of dresses called Carlye designed for the girl who knows clothes. You probably own one or several, but if by chance you do not... this garment is for YOU!

To begin with they have hanger-appeal. They are lined unless the fabric does not require it and they have quality inside that shows on the outside. Every Carlye has a special "look" because the designers go to Paris to view new collections. They come home armed with ideas which they adapt for the American way of fashion. They produce dresses that are simple, yet smart. New, but not novel. Versatile and just as "right" next year as this year. TRY one on TODAY at

So. Cal Is Unanimous Pick as No. 1

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Unbeaten Southern California, unanimous choice as the nation's top college football team in the latest Associated Press poll, has what appears to be a breather coming up this Saturday.

At that, though, the Trojans will be more vulnerable than second-ranked UCLA. The Bruins, who replaced Purdue in the No. 2 position, are not scheduled. USC goes up against Oregon, loser of five games in a row before its 31-6 victory over Idaho last weekend.

The Trojans, 6-0 after defeating Washington 23-6 last Saturday, drew first-place votes from all 37 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP's national panel in the latest poll.

UCLA collected 303 points on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc. The Bruins also lifted their record to 6-0 by beating Stanford, 21-16.

Colorado is third followed by Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, Purdue, Wyoming, Houston and Indiana.

The major gains were achieved by Tennessee, Georgia and Wyoming. The Volunteers climbed from seventh fourth after upsetting Alabama 24-13, and dropping the sixth-rated Crimson Tide out of the rankings.

Georgia advanced from eighth to sixth after walloping Virginia Military 56-6 while Wyoming edged from 10th to eighth. The Cowboys downed Wichita State 30-7 for a 6-0 mark.

Indiana took over the No. 10 spot.

The Hoosiers beat Michigan 27-20 for their fifth victory against no defeats.

Colorado, also 5-0, takes on Oklahoma State, 1-2-1, this Saturday. Oklahoma State beat the Buffaloes 11-10 last year.

North Carolina State meets Duke, Tennessee faces Louisiana State, Georgia plays Kentucky, Wyoming meets Arizona State, Purdue play Iowa, Houston faces Mississippi, and Indiana goes up against Arizona.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis:

1. Southern Cal (37) 370
2. UCLA 303
3. Colorado 283
4. Tennessee 228
5. No. Carolina State 222
6. Georgia 143
7. Purdue 110
8. Wyoming 91
9. Houston 84
10. Indiana 48

Mexico Bike Rider No. 1 Is Character

By KEVIN KELLEGHAN
MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Czechoslovakian bike rider who takes home movies and listens to rock and roll records when he isn't smashing world marks, has become the temperamental "lone wolf" of Mexico's Pre-Olympic Games.

And Jiri Daler, who broke the 4,000-meter and 5,000-meter bicycle speed tests, says he didn't come to Mexico's third international sports competition to break records or even to win.

"I didn't really care much about this competition in Mexico," the only Czech cyclist here said after breaking the world mark for 5,000 meters Monday. "I'm only interested in the Olympics and in world cycling competitions."

Yet Daler asked special permission to get on the track by himself and set the two marks. Why, if he's here only to tests facilities and his physical response to Mexico City's 7,347-foot altitude, did he do that?

"It's question of pride," he said. "I have to go back to Czechoslovakia, and the press will ask why I didn't. So I break records."

The 27-year-old assistant electrical engineer added: "I came to make tests, not break records. But now that I've set new world records I'm glad I did."

Daler broke the 4,000-meter mark of 4 minutes, 51.20 seconds held by Can Looy of Belgium with a time of 4:54.54 Saturday. He raced through 5,000 meters Monday in 6:05.74 to break the record of 6:13.4 set in 1960 by Constantino Francesco of Italy.

Decisive action remained tight again today in the big trial of facilities, personnel and organization before the 19th Olympic Games.

Finals were programmed only in women's team foil fencing and platform diving with eliminations or round robin tournaments in boxing, cycling, shooting, volleyball and water polo.

Whitworth Top Lady in Golf Cash

CINCINNATI (AP) — Muriel Lindstrom's victory Sunday in the Carlsbad Ladies' Open Golf Tournament failed to make any change in the standing of leading money winners on the Ladies' Professional Golf Association's 1967 tour. Kathy Whitworth still leads the pack with $28,392.

Miss Whitworth picked up only $226 at Carlsbad, N.M., but she tops second-place Sandra Haynie by more than $5,000, the LPGA headquarters here announced today.

Miss Whitworth has won seven tournaments and Miss Haynie is a two-time winner. Miss Haynie has won $23,168.

Carol Mann, with three victories, held on third place in the money windings with $22,080.

Miss Lindstrom, in 10th place in the standings with $10,310, was a winner for the first time since 1962 when she finished first at Carlsbad.

Attitude Is Chargers' Big Asset

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Many people have wondered what has made the San Diego Chargers the only undefeated team in the American Football League.

The factors are many—quarterback John Hadl, flanker Lance Alworth, two rookie runners, additions to the defensive unit. But Coach Sid Gillman gives most of the credit to attitude for San Diego's 5-0-1 record.

"I truly believe this is one of our best teams," Gillman said Monday. "It's not laden with so much talent but one thing we have is attitude. That's 90 percent of the battle."

"The players just know there's going to be some way to win the football game—punt return, fumble recovery, blocked kick—they know something will happen."

The Chargers have won five Western Division titles and one league crown since the AFL was founded in 1960. But they fell off to a 7-6-1 mark to finish third in the West last year.

Gillman's troops appeared headed for their worst season since 1962 (4-10) during the pre-season exhibitions when they were routed by three National Football League foes.

Quarterback Hadl was throwing almost as many interceptions as completions and the defense looked as if it belonged on a playground.

Then the Chargers suddenly jelled, upsetting Boston, 28-14 in the season opener. They whipped Houston, 13-3; Buffalo 37-17; Kansas City 45-31 and Denver, 38-21. They tied Boston 31-31.

"Hadl's arrived as a pro," Gillman said. "He's not just a quarterback with a play book. He's able to set himself and pick defenses apart with rhyme and reason."

Defensively, newcomers Scott Appleton and Tom Day on the line and linebackers Johnny Baker and rookie Jeff Staggs have played inspired football.

Sophomore Joe Beauchamp has developed into a "beautiful cornerback," said Gillman. Veterans Speedy Duncan, Kenny Graham and Bud Whitehead are playing some of the best football of their lives in the secondary.

Penn State Star Is a 'Loner'

By IRA MILLER

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — As college football players go, Penn State's Neal Smith is something of a freak.

Smith, starting at defensive halfback as a sophomore, showed up last year and went out for football on his own—without a scholarship, or grant-in-aid as the NCAA officially calls them.

Recruiters said he was too small, as a 170-pound tight end and middle linebacker in high school, to play college football.

Joe Paterno, the Penn State coach, said he knew about Smith, but that was it. Neither he, nor other recruiters, ever was seriously interested in him, Paterno says Smith is about 1-in-400 shot.

"Every spring we get about 40 boys out on their own on the first day of practice," Paterno said. "By the second day it's down to about 20 and then it drops off to nothing."

Multiply 40 by 10 years and you've got 400—or about how many Neal Smiths have failed since the last walk-in, as they're called, won a regular berth as a sophomore at Penn State.

"I just wanted to see if I could make it," Smith said. "I didn't receive any scholarship offers, but I got a bunch of letters. When they found out my size they didn't seem to be interested."

Smith played some split end for the Nittany Lions as a freshman last year and was switched to defensive halfback at the outset of spring drills—"to take advantage of his speed and agility," Paterno said.

"I used to see this kid playing good pass defense when we used the freshmen in drills against the varsity," Paterno said. "I asked Earl Bruce (the freshman coach) who he was and he told me, but I didn't really think about it that much at the time. But this fall each time we moved him up, he did better."

"Seldom have I seen a boy take more advantage of an opportunity. He's playing exceedingly well for a sophomore."

Hall No. 1 in State Football

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Little Rock Hall is No. 1 in the Associated Press Arkansas high school football poll, at least until Friday night.

The Warriors and Fort Smith Northside meet at Little Rock Friday night in what is being billed as the "Game of the Year" in the Arkansas high school ranks.

Both are undefeated. Hall is 7-0, Northside 8-0. Both are also in the Class AAA's Central Division and Friday's winner will take over the top spot in the conference race.

Hall has a fine passing attack featuring quarterback Walter Nelson and a solid running game with tailback Steve Hockersmith. Northside has a group of talented backs and quarterback Dwight Moore who can throw when necessary.

Hall and Northside tied for the top spot in the poll last week. Hall got seven first place votes and Northside five this week.

West Memphis, the leader in Region 2AA, is the only team to move into the top ten. The Blue Devils replaced Pine Bluff in the tenth spot.

Texarkana lost its first game of the season last week to Northside but remained in third place, North Little Rock sixth-ranked last week, vaulted over Springdale into fourth place. Springdale remained fifth.

Little Rock Central, which lost to El Dorado, fell from fourth to sixth. El Dorado advanced from ninth to seventh. Conway, seventh last week, dropped a 27-20 decision to North Little Rock, and fell to eighth.

Sheridan won its eighth straight Friday night but fell from eighth to ninth. Sheridan meets Malvern this week which should provide a sound test for the Yellowjackets.

Conway, Sheridan and West Memphis head the Class AA rankings. Last week it was Conway, Sheridan and Little Rock Catholic. Catholic defeated Searcy but fell from the select group.

Fordyce, Nashville and Berryville continue one-two-three in Class A. All were decisive winners last week.

Stamps and Gillett are still one-two in Class B but Gentry replaced Farmington in the third spot. Gentry, now 8-0, handed Farmington its first loss last week.

Hargett and Gilbert Hit 5-Yd. Pace

DALLAS (AP) — Edd Hargett of Texas A&M and Chris Gilbert of Texas may be called the five-yard men of Southwest Conference football.

Hargett is averaging that on both rushing and passing and doing it on 188 plays.

Gilbert is not quite five yards but his 4.6 made carrying the ball alone should be tantamount to five with passing as a crutch.

Gilbert already had set a career record at Texas with 1,700 yards and 620 of it comes this season. Crunching Chris made it on 134 tries and five of his runs brought touchdowns.

Hargett rolled up 941 yards in total offense and he has produced more touchdowns than anybody—nine.

Gilbert is far ahead in ball-carrying, with John Scovell of Texas Tech in second place with 333 yards. Hargett also is out front by a big margin since the second man in total offense, Bill Bradley of Texas, has 256 less yards.

Hargett also holds a healthy lead in passing. He has completed 59 throws out of 131 for 944 yards and seven touchdowns. Robert Halley of Rice is second with 35 of 69 for 541 and five touchdowns.

Jerry Levas of Southern Methodist leads in pass receiving with 23 catches for 259 yards and two touchdowns but the guy with the best results is Bob Long of A&M, who has caught only 16 but five of them were for touchdowns.

Steve O'Neal, Texas A&M's fabulous punter, is averaging 44.1 yards and that's 2½ yards per kick better than runnerup Bradley.

Bill Hobbs of A&M, who took one back 102 yards against Texas Christian, leads in pass interceptions with five.

Levas tops in punt returns with 200 yards on 15 and Larry Stegert of A&M leads in kickoff returns with 234 yards on 13.

Rice leads the league in team offense, averaging 397 yards per game. Arkansas is the top defensive unit, giving up only 256.0 per outing.

New Jersey Loses to Pittsburgh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Professional basketball came to New Jersey Monday with Wilt Chamberlain among the 3,089 spectators. The Americans, pride of Teaneck, could have used him out on the floor.

The Pittsburgh Pipers rallied from a 13-point third-period deficit to down the New Jersey Americans 110-107 in the opening American Basketball Association game for both clubs. Connie Hawkins scored 34 points for Pittsburgh and Charlie Williams added 32.

Dan Anderson hit for 41 points for the Americans, but it wasn't enough. The game ended in confusion as Art Heyman of New Jersey argued too loud and too long on a foul call and a technical foul was awarded to the Pipers, helping nail down the victory.

In the only other league action, Dallas won its second game against one defeat, knocking off Houston 100-83. Houston now is 1-2.

Riders of Bench Now See Action

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The backup quarterback who sits on the bench with the headphones and thinks how much better he could do is finally getting a chance this season.
Kent Nix at Pittsburgh, Jim Hart at St. Louis, Gary Cuozzo at New Orleans, Darryle Lamonte at Oakland, Pete Beathard at Houston and Steve Tensi at Denver all are getting a chance to play after riding the bench behind No. 1.
Nix was a taxi squad man at Green Bay last season, seen only during the week while the Packers charged through the National Football League and then beat Kansas City in the Super Bowl.
Traded to Pittsburgh, where he figured to be No. 2 to Bill Nelsen, Nix was promoted to first string when Nelsen's troublesome knee gave out again. The young man from Texas Christian set a Steeler record

Sunday with 28 completions against Dallas.
Hart was supposed to tag along behind Charley Johnson at St. Louis. When Johnson was called into the Army, the Cards had to fall back on this untied rookie from Southern Illinois whose only pro experience had been completing four of 11 passes in last year's finale with Cleveland. Hart passed for four touchdowns Sunday against Philadelphia.
When the New Orleans Saints traded their No. 1 draft pick to Baltimore in the deal that brought Cuozzo to the Saints, they figured Johnny Unitas' understudy would take over the job. Billy Kilmer had such a fine preseason record that Coach Tom Fears went with him for a time but seems to have shifted over to Cuozzo.
Lamonte played second fiddle to Jackie Kemp at Buffalo for years while the crowd hooted. Now he is No. 1 at Oakland and throwing his weight around the American Football League. He passed for four touchdowns Sunday in the rout of Boston.
Beathard chafed under the restraining rope at Kansas City where he was behind Lenny Dawson. So he was traded to Houston. Although he completed only three of 14 passes Sunday, one was for a touchdown in the 24-19 victory over Dawson and his former mates.

Tensi, injured after he was traded to Denver by San Diego, threw for 234 yards Sunday in a losing effort against the Chargers.
Craig Morton and Jerry Rhyme are getting their chances to move the Dallas Cowboys while Don Meredith is out of action. Morton's third scoring pass Sunday beat Pittsburgh.
Joe Kapp, a Canadian League star, has moved in as No. 1 at Minnesota. He hit with 15 of 25 for 203 yards and a touchdown and got a 20-20 draw in a duel with Baltimore's Johnny Unitas Sunday.
The return of Bart Starr sent Zeke Bratkowski to his normal backup role at Green Bay after two games as a starter.
Atlanta went to Terry Nofsinger, acquired for a draft choice from St. Louis, and stayed in the ball game with Detroit until the final period.

Stanfield Top Scorer for Hockey

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred Stanfield of the Boston Bruins, a center obtained from Chicago in a trade last spring, has taken over the National Hockey League scoring lead, the latest statistics disclosed today.
Stanfield collected six points on four goals and two assists last week, giving him 11 points for the campaign.
Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal and John McKenzie, Boston, are tied for second with 10 points. The latter tops the circuit in assists with eight.
Chicago's Bobby Hull and California's Billy Hicke are deadlocked for fourth with nine points. Cournoyer, Hull and Pittsburgh's Andy Bathgate share first place in goals with six.
The Montreal tandem of Gump Worsley and Rogatien Vachon share goaltending honors with the St. Louis pair of Glenn Hall and Seth Martin. Each twosome has an average of 2.17 goals against.

Ghost of Scopes Trial Reappears

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Echoes of Tennessee's famed "Monkey Trial" may ring this term in the Supreme Court if a parent of two teen-agers and a red-haired former biology teacher have their way.
They set the stage for a replay of the 1925 spectacle when they brought to the high court Monday a challenge to Arkansas' antievolution law.
Mrs. Susan Epperson, 26, claimed she could not teach biology properly in Little Rock's Central High School without explaining the Darwinian concept of evolution. She is now a researcher at Columbia, Mo.
The parent, H. H. Blanchard, who is assistant executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association, claimed the 1928 Arkansas law prevents his school-aged children from being exposed to all scientific theory.
Together they said the U.S. Constitution prohibits making freedom of inquiry subordinate to "the religious belief of the majority."

And both of them, the appeal says, do not "construe the Darwinian theory as attacking and being inconsistent with the story of the creation of the earth, as set forth in the Christian Bible."
The Arkansas law forbids the teaching in any tax-supported school in the state of "the theory or doctrine that mankind ascended or descended from a lower order of animals."
Textbooks advancing the concept of evolution are banned. Teachers or textbook commissioners who violate the law may be fined up to $500 and fired.
Arkansas and Mississippi are the only two states with laws prohibiting the teaching of the evolution theory. The Arkansas law was upheld by the State Supreme Court June 5 as a "valid exercise of the state's power to specify the curriculum in its public schools."
Darwinism captivated the nation 42 years ago when John T. Scopes, a young teacher, was convicted in Dayton, Tenn., of teaching evolution. The trial, in a carnival atmosphere, pitted Clarence Darrow, for the defense, against William Jennings Bryan, for the prosecution. Tennessee repealed its law last year.

Misuse of Position Charged

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Edwin Gray of De Queen was accused Monday of using his position on the state Liquefied Petroleum Gas Board to win approval of an application he had filed in 1966.
Eugene R. Warren, a Little Rock lawyer, said in Circuit Court that Gray should have declined the appointment to the board by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in January or should have asked the board to defer action on his application after he became a member.
The application Gray filed in 1966 was for a permit to operate as a butane retailer.
Warren represented Quality LP Gas Co. of Nashville, one of 11 butane dealers that he said served the Nashville area. The board approved Gray's application in March and Quality appealed to Circuit Court.
Judge Tom F. Dwyer took the appeal under advisement to read the transcript of the hearing held by the board. Warren also declared that before the hearing was held Gray bought two sites for operation of his proposed dealership at Nashville and other equipment to go into business—all of which Warren said was prohibited by state law until his application had been approved.
The board's lawyer, Isaac A. Scott Jr., contended that Gray properly disqualified himself from sitting on the board when his application was considered.

Pope Keeps Busy Despite His Illness

VATICAN CITY (AP) — No letdown in the busy schedule of Pope Paul VI is foreseen despite a prostate condition for which he is expected to undergo an operation, possibly about mid-November.
A Vatican spokesman said there is no cause for worry that the 70-year-old pontiff may be overexerting himself, but reliable sources say the Pope's doctors are concerned about the tiring pace he has been keeping.

Review West Point Procedure

LBJ's Hand on U.S. Not as Sure as It Is With Congress

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is getting his lumps for a reason that took time to reveal itself. He is not the same master politician in dealing with the nation that he once was with Congress.
Trying to win national approval is a relatively new experience for him, outside his training. And public opinion polls show his rating going down, down.
True, he won the 1964 election overwhelmingly. But his opponent was Barry Goldwater, a man out of date with his times. The long pull in the test of Johnson's leadership and popularity began after the election, not before.
In American history there probably has never been a Democratic majority leader in the Senate in the same class with Johnson while he was leader there from 1955 through 1960.
That was the climax of 24 years of his life in Congress where he became a specialist in getting things done. And the way he got them done required not only approval for what he wanted but personal handling.
But he can't deal with a whole nation the way he did with individual senators whom he tackled in several ways.
—He dealt with them head-to-head on the telephone, in his office, or in the Senate cloakroom before voting time.
—He didn't seek total victories. He was willing to yield a point to gain a vote for a whole bill. The result might be less than the idealists wanted like the 1957 civil rights bill, the first approved in this century. But in getting it through Johnson achieved more than anyone else had been able to.
He once reportedly said of himself: "I'm a compromiser and a maneuverer. I try to get something. That's the way our system works."

—He also could have said he was a manipulator. He made it his business to know everything he could about his fellow senators: Their strengths, weaknesses, interests, needs, desires and political obligations.
With all that in his head, when he asked for a senator's vote, he was in a good position to try to help the helper some other way. The result was that a lot of senators felt obliged to him, and friendly.
To put it another way, Johnson was a marvelous behind-the-scenes operator.
But since he can't call the whole nation on the phone, or into his office or into the cloakroom for the head-to-head stuff, he must depend on winning public approval through speeches, statements and performance.
But even in the Senate Johnson was not a distinguished speaker. He's not a good one. He's awkward at it. It's not his field. Making people see things his way, by dealing with them personally, is.
He is self-conscious about his speech-making and realized some time ago he was not at his best on television. That accounts, no doubt, for the infrequency of his TV talks in the past two years compared with before that.
The national frustration over the rash of racial riots in the past few years rubs off on Johnson if only because he has done nothing notable to solve them. It's hard to see how he could in the time he's had.
But it's the Vietnamese war which has damaged him most for several reasons: It has dragged out, victory is not in sight, the longer it lasts the more American lives are lost, and Johnson's detailed explanations to the nation have been few.

That leaves a vacuum in public thinking about the war. Since Johnson isn't doing much to fill the vacuum with explanations, his critics are. The war, taking up more and more of his time, has meant less time for him to try his old magic with Congress, which put on one of its greatest performances in 1965, when the Vietnamese war was just building up, but nothing like this.
The result: Johnson has lost control of Congress where a great performance, produced by his manipulation, might do much to offset the criticism he gets on the war. Meanwhile, his critics in Congress grow by the day.

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department expects to begin melting silver coins after Christmas to help accumulate enough silver for domestic use into the 1970s.
Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the treasury, said the department expects to have between 350 million to 425 million ounces of silver in bars and coins by next June 24—enough to supply industry for three to four years.
June 24 is the deadline for Americans to turn in their silver certificates—one type of paper money issued between 1929 and the early 1960s—for silver.
The price of silver rose to a record $1.89 an ounce Monday in New York, 10 days after the government announced it is saving its purest silver for the strategic stockpile.
But Wallace said there's plenty of silver to go around.
Earlier this year, the government quietly began withdrawing from circulation some of the old dimes and quarters containing 90 per cent silver. It now makes copper-nickel coins.
The withdrawal was described as a precaution to provide a backlog of coins for the Christmas rush and to make sure the Treasury had enough silver to redeem certificates and feed the strategic stockpile.
What began as an informal practice, Wallace said, became a fixed rule in late July and now all the old dimes and quarters are being withdrawn from circulation when they return in the normal course of business to the 36 federal reserve banks and branches.
He said the coins retrieved through last Friday contain 150 million ounces of silver. Another 100 million to 175 million ounces is expected to be pulled from circulation through June 24.
In all probability, he said, the department will begin melting the old coins into bars after December.
The Treasury is not bound by the ban on melting of coins imposed May 18 when it also barred export of silver coins and limited sales of silver bars to domestic users.
The department has no plans to lift the melting ban or to recall all silver coins.
It's estimated that the 8 1/2 million dimes and quarters considered in circulation contain about 700 million ounces of silver.

PARADE OF PROGRESS HONOR ROLL

Of Hope Business Institutions

Have you ever wondered when the Hope firms with whom you do business with were founded, who founded them, and who runs them? You'll find the answer in this Parade of Progress Honor Roll. Each of Hope's Business enterprises is contributing materially to the continuing and impressive community progress. Each firm or organization is placed according to the year it was established in Hope.

1885

GIBSON'S REXALL DRUG founded in 1885 by A. A. Gibson. John S. Gibson assumed ownership in 1890. We became a Rexall Drug store in 1905. John S. Gibson Jr. and his brother Charles Dana became partners with their father in 1956. John Jr. sold his interest to his brother, Charles and his wife Margaret. M. D. Shell came to Gibsons in 1941 and became Pharmacist manager since 1957.

1892

WARD & SON DRUG CO. Established in 1892 by J. J. Ward, father of the late Finley Ward, and A. M. Key. Steve Bader & Douglas Drake present owners.

1893

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, Captain J. T. West was a spunky man. Back in 1876 he retired from successful Mississippi Boating business and moved to Hope, (a cabin boy under him was a youngster named Samuel L. Clemens whom the West nicknamed Mark Twain.)

In 1893 The Bank of Hope came into existence with spunky Captain West as its first president. Later known as the First National Bank of Hope, it still maintains the old rivermans aggressiveness and business institution.

Since opening the doors of its new building at Second and Walnut in 1959, First National has almost doubled its customer deposits, and grown into a financial institution offering a full range of services to all Southwest Arkansas. Maybe it's because the Spirit of spunky Captain West is still there.

1895

King Would Jam Capital for Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King urged a massive civil rights "camp-in" in Washington aimed at forcing Congress into adopting a crash anti-poverty program.

King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a longtime advocate of nonviolent protest, said Monday: "We have to find a middle road between riots and timid supplication."

"We need an escalation of nonviolence to civil disorder in order to channelize the legitimate rage of the community."

Saying it will cost $20 billion a year for the next 20 years to eradicate slums and rehabilitate slum-dwellers, King added:

"The time has come to ramp here in Washington and stay here by the thousands and thousands until the federal government and the Congress will do something about the problem."

King, a Baptist minister and winner of a Nobel peace prize for his work in civil rights, spoke to newsmen after testifying in closed session to the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

Earlier, the same panel was told by Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles that jobs—and the training to hold jobs—were the keys to ending urban disorders.

This summer's riots will be the subject of hearings beginning Wednesday by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The panel will probe possible subversive elements in the urban uprisings.

Catholics Win in Vietnam

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Roman Catholics, who total just 2 million of South Vietnam's 17 million people, appeared today to have won the largest bloc of seats in the House of Representatives as they did in the Senate.

But the House is a political patchwork of factions with no faction in the majority.

The 137-member House, said one local newspaper, "will be really representative of the confused political situation in Vietnam."

The Catholics captured about 20 per cent of the House seats, ballot tabulations showed Monday, while radical Buddhists opposed to President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, a Catholic, nailed down about 20 seats, and army officers won 15. But the latter's support for Thieu, who was an army general, is unpredictable.

The Hoa Hao and Cao Dai religious sects got a handful of seats. Both of these sects have tried to remain aloof from the war but have lately been sliding into the government camp.

The Catholics include many refugees from North Vietnam and are among the most staunchly anti-Communist of all groups. They would not take kindly to negotiations yielding too much to the Communists.

The Catholics' strong showing in the elections reflects their good political organization. The Buddhists are split into radical, moderate and other factions.

U.A. Group Protests Censorship

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — John Dacus of Fayetteville, a former editor of the University of Arkansas literary magazine "Preview," told about 750 University of Arkansas students Monday that if they want to read four poems authorities say are in bad taste they will have to get the magazine published.

The students turned out for a protest "read-in" but Dacus told the group the poems couldn't be "read here today." A chorus of boos greeted the announcement.

"I felt the same way," Dacus said. "But they cannot be read . . . because the poems are copyrighted."

Officials have held up publication of the magazine since last year on grounds that the poems are in "bad taste." The poems were to have been printed in the magazine.

About a dozen students met with Dr. David Mullins, the university president, in his office after several persons had addressed the crowd.

Mullins reportedly gave the students some encouragement. The meeting was described as "gentle" and "calm."

Mullins reportedly told the group he was hopeful the magazine could be printed intact. He also is reported to have said that he did not want to commit himself but that it was possible the magazine could be printed off the campus.

"I'm in favor of publishing what has been approved by the proper authorities—in this case the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and his advisory staff," Mullins reportedly told the group.

Mullins told the crowd he was working with the dean of Arts and Sciences and that he would make their position public in a "very short time."

"What did he say," someone yelled after Mullins returned to his office.

"Nothing!" answered the crowd.

Several speakers promised that similar demonstrations would be held today and "everyday until 'Preview' is printed."

Robert Bruce of Little Rock, one of the speakers, said he had read the four poems for the first time Sunday night.

"Man, I've never seen a bigger load of rubbish in my life," he said. "But they're legally okay. It's not up to the head printer to censor them."

A. W. Blake, head of the printing department of the university's School of Journalism, refused to print the magazine on grounds that the poems were obscene. State Auditor Jimmie "Red" Jones said last week he felt the poems were obscene and refused to sign a state warrant to pay for having them printed.

The poems reportedly are not sexual.

Senator Hits Rusk for 'Crusade'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Vance Hartke said today Secretary of State Dean Rusk has committed the United States to a crusade in Asia "we had better not embark upon until a consensus has developed which is much larger than now exists in the country."

"We are the world's greatest power, no doubt of it," the Indiana Democrat and Vietnam war policy critic said.

"This administration plans to use that power to save Asia from communism, even if we must do so virtually single-handed—as seems likely—and without regard to the cost to our domestic society," he said.

"We stand ready to save a billion 'free Asians' from a threat most of them do not feel," Hartke's speech was prepared for the Senate.

He said it was to answer Rusk's comments at an Oct. 12 news conference.

He said Rusk contended "Asian Communist imperialism, represented by one billion Chinese, will be able within the next few years, and with nuclear weapons, to threaten to impose communism on one billion free Asians."

"The Communists will be likely to succeed in this venture unless the United States assists the free nations of Asia by supplying American manpower and materiel and equating stability and progress in these nations with the national security of the United States."

Hartke asked: "First, if free Asia is threatened by Asian communism as suggested, then why is it that the most populous nations which are so threatened are not helping the United States in Vietnam with men and materiel? Specifically, why don't Japan, Indonesia, and India see the threat in Secretary Rusk's terms? Don't those three nations combined have more industry, more raw material, and more manpower than exists in all of mainland China?"

"Second, is it not true that the United States is paying directly, or indirectly, the full costs of the troops of Korea, Thailand, and the Philippines who are with us in Vietnam? Would they be willing to help us without subsidy?"

"Third, why is it that most of our NATO allies do not see the threat in the secretary's terms? Does the United States have a particular clairvoyance on this subject?"

"Fourth, do a majority of the members of the United Nations agree with the conclusion of the secretary that 'one of the most important historical facts in this postwar period has been that the almost unbelievable power of the United States has been harnessed to the simple notion of organizing the peace in the world? Does not the United Nations have a role in organizing the peace?"

"Fifth, how many troops does mainland China now have stationed outside her borders? Is that more or less than the number of Americans stationed in Asia? Does this disposition of troops suggest to the world community that Chinese communism is on the march?"

HOW TO KEEP A DAUGHTER OVERWEIGHT

Dear Helen:

I'm trying hard to lose weight, and I guess my Dad thinks he is helping, but, Helen, every word he says to me concerns my fatness.

I have gone off to school early many times, just to escape him. If I lose 10 pounds, he makes some derogatory remark like, "You're such a lard-gut, who'd notice?"

When I'm away from home, food is no problem. But when he starts in on me, I'm somehow pulled toward food.

I have plenty of friends, but I don't date much because I'm scared that girls will turn down a fat boy. That's what my father says. He downgrades me so much I'm getting a complex.—DISTRAUGHT SON

Dear Son:

Parents who think constant criticism goads their kids to success should have tried on THEM. I wonder how long your father could stand a nag-nag-nagging boss?

If your mother can't soft-peddle the yak about fatness, then develop a switch in your brain that clicks off when your Dad starts yammering. . . . And hit that diet hard. It's the best way to shut him up.—H.

Dear Helen:

What is a "Speed Freak?"—SMALL TOWNER

Dear S.T.:

A Speed Freak is one who has taken so many pep pills (Speed, "A," uppies, bennies, methedrine, amphetamines) that he is "freaked-out." He is irritable, confused, tense, highly nervous, often aggressive and sometimes a real psycho. He suffers from nausea, loss of weight and if he continues his overdoses, the pills may kill him.

These pills affect the central nervous system. They give the user a temporary sense of well-being—and so they hook him because he can't stand the way he feels when they wear off. Often he combines them with barbiturates (downies, yellowjackets, redbirds, etc.) so that he can "float." And he may float straight to the morgue, especially if he washes them down with liquor. The big danger here is that the body develops a tolerance for such drugs and the user takes more and more to achieve the desired effect. Drinking makes him lose control. . . . So one day he doesn't wake up from his hangover. . . .

Doctors say overuse of pep pills can cause permanent organic brain damage or serious psychiatric disorders. We all know that an excess of barbiturates (sleeping pills) means curtains. They also cause dizziness, loss of coordination and they can be physically addictive, with painful withdrawal symptoms.

While marijuana gets the headlines these days, it's my belief that MISUSE of pep (or diet) and tranquilizer (or barbiturate) pills is our big drug problem. In my files are letters from teenagers—housewives too—so hung up on pills they are almost incoherent, yet they can't stop. They don't even dare confide in a doctor, for often they get their doses illegally. If they become dangerously ill, they may be treated for other ailments—and some of them will die.—H.

Dear Helen:

One of my friends lives in California. She writes that she is not against grass, acid and hippies, and she would like to try pot if she wasn't chicken.

If I get a letter saying she HAS tried it, should I tell her mother? I don't want to flunk, but I just can't see my friend involved in something like this. I know others wonder about this problem too. Do we tell?—D.F.T.

Dear D:

Your friend is probably no more eager to try pot than you are—but she is most eager to impress you. Send her copies of the latest straight-talk about drugs, and then drop the subject.

Should friends "flunk" on drug-users? If they're in real danger, I'd say "Yes," but a lot of teens will disagree with me.—H.

Unionists Voting on Ford Offer

By A.F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The 100,000 United Auto Workers who struck Ford Motor Co. 48 days ago begin voting today on a new contract that would send them streaming back to their jobs by the weekend.

The danger of a veto by skilled tradesmen existed but union leaders discounted this possibility.

The contract contains a guaranteed annual income, effective in December of 1968, and the company says it would make them "among the best paid and best protected of all U.S. industrial wage-earners."

The union's leadership agrees, and the UAW's 200-member National Ford Council overwhelmingly recommended ratification Monday night, despite the "No No!" shouts of an estimated 200 to 250 dissident skilled tradesmen who were beaten off when they attempted to storm the meeting.

Fists flew briefly. At least three men were knocked down and several noses bloodied.

Council delegates and UAW international representatives came storming out in a flying wedge as the loudly chanting tradesmen-pickets followed television cameramen into a lobby off the council's downtown meeting hall and threatened to force its doors.

'Fragment' Bids Guide to Slams

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you want to use fragment bids, the first thing to do is to get together with your favorite partner or partners and agree on which ones to use. As a starter, you should stick to sequences that start with a one-over-one response.

In case you missed yesterday's column, a fragment bid is a superjump in a new suit. A regular jump is forcing and supposedly shows strength in the suit. This superjump is also forcing and also shows tremendous support for partner and a singleton or fragment in the new suit.

Fragment bids may well be described as high level bridge. You can get to even a higher level if you add things to them.

North's four club call is a fragment bid. What is South's jump to five spades?

Roger Stern of New York who made that five spade bid had never discussed it with Larry Rosler of Jersey City, but Roger and Larry are scientists and Roger felt sure that Larry would know what it meant.

Larry is not one of our fastest players, but after two or three minutes of thought he decided that Roger was say-

After that, Larry bid six hearts to show the ace of that suit and for Roger went all the way to seven spades.

Of course, they might have gotten there with Blackwood. However, if Roger had used Blackwood and Larry had shown only one ace, Roger would not have known what to do.

Further Remarks on Our Journey Through Ozarks

I am aware of the legend that whenever a traveler returns home he can't quit talking about his journey. Back in the old days of letterpress when we still had printers one of our shopmen made a trip to California, and the foreman remarked wearily, "It's been three years now — and Clarence is still crossing the desert!"

When L. Carter Johnson and I got settled at Eureka Springs' Crescent Hotel last Friday we found our dining table manned by a couple of cute 'teen-agers. I told them I saw a big banner downtown announcing that the Barefoot Ball was held the night before.

"Did you all go?" I asked. "Yep," they replied. "Did you dance?"

"Yep."

"Did you have a good time?"

"Yep."

"Do you care to tell us anything else?"

"Nope."

Conversationalists the Ozarks folks are as sparing as New Englanders . . .

Sunday morning Johnson and I were trying to get out of Eureka Springs on State Highway 23 north for Table Rock Lake, but a road block forced us to abandon the hotel's route instructions, and we bogged down in Eureka's endless hills and curves and dead-end streets.

Finally we asked directions of a couple of women just getting out of their car.

They smiled indulgently and said, "We're from Chicago . . ."

And looked at us askance, noting our Arkansas license.

I've got news for Chicago. Even Arkansans get lost in Eureka . . .

The Missouri Ozarks are no more rugged or beautiful than the Arkansas variety — but the Missouri side is better populated and developed. Branson is the recreational capital, close to the shrine honoring the late Harold Bell Wright whose "Shepherd of the Hills" novels made the region world famous.

It is pretty obvious that the difference between development in the two Ozarks is due to the fact that Harold Bell Wright lived and wrote on the Missouri rather than the Arkansas side of the line. Much of history's fame is due to the fact that certain leaders had a Boswell to build them up with publicity. So it is with geography.

The Missouri Ozarks got a head-start behind the pen of Harold Bell Wright. But now the Arkansas Ozarks are cashing in on the overflow crowd of tourists and are catching up.

Vietnam on Ballot in 'Frisco

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's 317,240 voters get a chance to air an opinion on U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war in the Nov. 7 election.

Registrar of Voters Basil Healey expects a near-record 80 per cent turnout.

Even without Vietnam on the ballot, the election may be one of the hottest in the city's history. Standing for election in the race for mayor are 18 candidates, and another 44 are running for supervisor. Supervisors run the city-county.

It took a ruling of the California Supreme Court to force the Vietnam question onto the San Francisco ballot.

The court ruled that Healey, who had said foreign policy was no concern of municipal voters, exceeded his authority in his new refusal to accept the issue for the ballot.

In its final form, the question is labeled "Proposition P" and reads:

"Shall it be the policy of the city and county of San Francisco so that there be an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam so that the Vietnamese people can solve their own problems?— yes or no."

A municipal election "won't change foreign policy," Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said on a recent visit here.

U.S. Bureaus Out of Cash in Showdown

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle of the budget closes in on the Senate today after an array of federal departments and agencies technically ran out of money at midnight.

A stopgap resolution that would continue their spending authority until Nov. 15 is up for Senate action, opening the way for amendments to force cutbacks in government expenditures.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said he would propose a 5 per cent cut in nondefense appropriations for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-DeI., reportedly planned to ask the Senate to adopt the spending curbs added by the House last week to a resolution providing temporary financing for departments and agencies whose 1967-68 appropriations are still pending.

The House directed President Johnson to cut government spending by $6 billion to $8 billion this year.

The move climaxed a battle between the House and the administration over taxes and spending. Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge is at least temporarily shelved in committee.

The Senate Appropriations Committee threw out all the spending restrictions voted by the House, but Mundt's proposal for a 5 per cent cutback only lost on a 10-10 tie vote.

Mundt's amendment would reduce appropriations by about $1.9 billion, $1 billion of this reflected in spending cuts this year. The president would pick the items to be cut.

Some senators said they favored economy but insisted specific cutting should be done by Congress. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the President already has too much power and Congress shouldn't add to it.

The Senate Appropriations Committee said the proposed "across-the-board reductions go far beyond what is intended and are extremely difficult to interpret and apply."

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., said he will offer an amendment declaring Congress already has reduced Johnson's appropriations requests by $2 billion in passing six money bills this year and expects to vote further reduction of about $3 billion on the remaining appropriations measures.

Probers Seek Links Between Organized Crime and Louisiana

By JACK OWENS
Associated Press Writer
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Does organized crime, specifically the Cosa Nostra, have influence on Louisiana government and the economy of the state? Six official investigations are under way to find out.

It all began last month with a series of three articles by Life magazine that named people, places and things to support allegations that syndicated crime ran rampant in the state.

The articles pictured Carlos Marcello, longtime New Orleans area racketeer figure, as the kingpin of Cosa Nostra activities in this section of the country. Marcello, the magazine claimed, had managed to penetrate the state Capitol—even a portion of the governor's office.

Gov. John McKeithen initially called the magazine's allegations a deliberate smear of Louisiana. However, after meeting in New York with Life's editors, the government came home convinced some wrongdoing had indeed gone on. He said he apologized to Life.

From there, McKeithen, who seeks the Democratic party nomination Nov. 4 to succeed himself, took the bull by the horns. He emerged as a prime mover in getting state grand juries and special agencies to probe the Louisiana crime scene.

These developments followed: —D'Ailton Smith, a New Orleans contractor, has been indicted on public bribery charges growing out of claims he offered $25,000 to Aubrey Young, a former aide to McKeithen, to influence Young in his conduct in office. Under Louisiana law, an offer is the same as a bribe.

—Young, who was fired by McKeithen, turned state's evidence. It was after Young's testimony before a grand jury that Smith was indicted.

—Capt. Roland Coppola, a Lafayette state police troop commander, was suspended from his post by McKeithen within hours after the governor flew back to Louisiana from the meeting with Life editors.

—Malcolm V. O'Hara, a New Orleans criminal district judge, faces impeachment charges.

McKeithen testified before a New Orleans grand jury brought into session by Orleans Parish Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison. McKeithen said afterward he denied any personal links with the underworld although he is certain that calls were made from a racketeer's private telephone.

The main load of investigative work thus far has been carried by a state and a federal grand jury in New Orleans, and a state grand jury in Baton Rouge. The other panels are at work in Ferriday and Jefferson Parish, near New Orleans.

Today the State Labor-Management Commission of Inquiry launches a probe into alleged racketeering in labor and management relations. Its sessions will be secret.

The bribery charges revolve around an alleged attempt by the Cosa Nostra to pull a $1 million deal to buy Teamsters Union President James Hoffa's freedom from federal prison.

Life told of the bribery attempt, saying the underworld raised the $1 million and gave it to Marcello to make the deal.

Cold Wave Scheduled for State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold front was scheduled to move across Arkansas today and tonight, accompanied by scattered showers and thunderstorms.

Temperatures are expected to be cooler after the front passes. As the front moved slowly across the state, a wide band of showers and thunderstorms was expected to develop. However, skies should begin to clear in the western areas late tonight and across the state Wednesday.

A blustery, mild day was forecast today, to be followed by windy and cooler weather Wednesday.

Increased cloudiness held temperatures down in the state Monday. The mercury reached 81 at El Dorado and Texarkana and 72 at Harrison and Fayetteville for the highest and lowest maximums. Overnight lows were in the 60s.

Major Pause in Bombing May Be Near

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The United States is considering a major pause in the bombing of North Vietnam this winter to test Hanoi's willingness to start peace talks, an American diplomat said today.

There is scant hope among diplomats here that even a prolonged halt in the bombing will induce North Vietnam to sit down and work out any peace settlement that Saigon and Washington would accept.

But because of heavy foreign pressure for a pause, Washington might order one in an attempt to show that the United States is eager for peace but that Hanoi is unwilling to settle for anything less than American capitulation.

The prolonged bombing pause, if one is decided upon, probably would begin in December with the traditional Christmas truce. Another stand down is ordered for New Year's and a third in January for Tet, the Buddhist new year celebration.

The United States in 1965 waited for more than a month before resuming bombing of the North after the Tet cease-fire. Hanoi gave no sign that it wanted to bargain and the raids were resumed.

The U.S. military is strongly opposed to a major bombing halt because during it Hanoi can move men and war materials into the South with relative impunity. But the weather over North Vietnam at the turn of the year is usually so bad that bombing of major targets is sharply curtailed anyway.

A bombing pause also would not necessarily cover the air war in Laos where American planes hammer the Ho Chi Minh infiltration trail daily. The United States has never acknowledged this campaign and would be under little pressure to halt it. The weather in Laos is excellent for bombing during the winter months.

Plans for the bombing pause are not expected to be worked out until after the inauguration at the end of October of President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, who said during his campaign and after his election he would propose a truce in the air war.

Ask Federal Case Before State Trial

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell and state Highway Commission attorney J. L. Shaver Jr. filed an intervention suit Monday in a taxpayer's suit pending in Chancery Court.

The taxpayer's suit, brought by G. D. Nelson of Little Rock, alleges that five petroleum companies overcharged the state about $3 million on purchase of asphalt over a period of several years.

A similar case is pending in federal District Court.

The state's intervention in Nelson's suit renewed the argument that the federal court case should be tried first because the state would collect triple damages under the federal anti-trust laws if it won.

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Everett Davis, 21, of Harvey, Ill., said Monday he had received a letter from the Arkansas A-M-N administration, telling him that he is not considered a student and asking him to leave the campus.

Davis was elected president of the institution's student body last spring.

Davis said the letter said he had not registered for the fall term and therefore, did not qualify as a student. He said he has been attending classes in this fall but school officials claim Davis has attended one class once and two classes twice.

McNamara's Job May Be in Danger

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A quiet debate goes on in the nation's capital these days: Is Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's stature within the administration slipping?

Opinions range from assertions that McNamara is stronger than ever in one of the world's most powerful jobs, to claims that he is losing influence.

A body of opinion—largely outside the Pentagon—points to widened bombing of North Vietnam as evidence McNamara is yielding ground to more hawkish elements advising President Johnson.

Pentagon insiders consider this thesis wrong, but quite readily state that McNamara would like to leave the secretaryship and move on to a new field, perhaps heading up a university or foundation.

"He would beat the hell out of here if he could," one source reports. "He needs this job like a hole in the head."

It is rather firmly believed within the Pentagon that McNamara is staying on primarily out of loyalty to President Johnson.

Johnson, it is said, insists he wants McNamara—"the professor," he sometimes calls him—to stay on as chief manager of the war effort.

McNamara, in turn, feels a sense of responsibility for seeing the war through to some sort of military or diplomatic conclusion.

Most officials feel that, unless the conflict should end tomorrow, McNamara will remain fast at his station at least through the 1968 presidential election.

After that, regardless of the outcome, he may well step down.

By then McNamara would have served nearly eight years in one of the most stormy assignments government offers. Throughout much of that tenure he will have served as a valuable lightning rod for political heat brought on the administration by the controversial war.

The McNamara's falling-out chorus has been sounded in Congress and by some columnists. He said 62 of the areas would be developed initially and the other ten would be set aside for further use.

Bane said each recreation area would be equipped with a launching ramp, picnic tables, water wells and restrooms.

Charging Football Parkers Illegal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Henry M. de Noble, the director of the Little Rock Department of Community Development, said Monday home owners near War Memorial Stadium cannot legally charge football fans to park in their yards but the city can do nothing about it.

De Noble said home owners violate two city ordinances when they charge fans to park.

He said it is illegal to allow parking on front-yard space of any property that is not zoned commercially or industrially and that it also is illegal to charge for parking and not pay the city's privilege tax.

School Lunch Price Is Increased

James H. Jones, Superintendent of Schools, announced today that all plate lunches will be increased 5 cents beginning November 1, for all lunchrooms in Hope School District 1-A.

The cost of plate lunches and extra items will be as follows: Elementary Schools - 30 cents. Extra Milk (no increase) - 3 cents.

Jr. - Sr. High Schools (Grades 7-12) - 35 cents. Extra Milk (no increase) - 3 cents.

All plate lunches are Type A meals and include one half pint of milk.

"After the first two months of operation we find it necessary to increase 5 cents beginning of rising operating costs," Mr. Jones stated.

It is possible for needy students to work during lunch period to pay for lunches.

There are approximately 2,100 plate lunches served daily in all lunchrooms.

Israeli Cry Vengeance on Egypt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptians and Israelis bombarded each other with artillery and mortars today across the Suez Canal near Port Taufiq at the southern end.

An Israeli army spokesman said artillery fire hit and set afire the oil refineries at Port Ibrahim, across the canal from Port Taufiq. He said the refineries were going up in smoke, cutting off part of Egypt's oil supply.

The spokesman asserted the Egyptians opened up with small arms and then loosed artillery fire, whereupon the Israelis on the east bank of the canal replied. One Israeli casualty was reported.

The announcement came amid a clamor in Israel for vengeance against Egypt after its sinking of the Israeli destroyer Elath. But informed sources said the Israeli government planned no hasty reprisals and would "let the Arabs sweat it out for awhile."

Egyptian officials said they regarded an Israeli counterblow as certain and called off air raids tests in Cairo with a warning to residents that "if the sirens blow at any time, this means an actual raid."
